

Not Far Apart

I promise no tomorrow

But today will last

And since each day is always the same here

There's no longing for the past.

So when tomorrow starts without me

Don't think that I'm that far apart.

For every time you think of me

I'm right in your heart.

So grieve me for little while,

Then let your grief be

Comforted by trust and each other;

That way you will be able to treasure

The memories that's always within your heart.
