

To My Husband

In our seventeen-year journey of marriage, we had our ups and downs, our ins and outs. One thing I knew for certain is that we loved each other... very much. We loved God and He kept us until the end. Now that you have ran your race and finished your course ahead of me, I know in my heart you'll be there waiting to greet me with open arms and that warm, beautiful smile. I trust you'll be waiting for me there because you never left my side while you were here. I will see you at the crossroads when my journey ends. My big baby with a big heart.

Love Your Wife, Nancy

Life Reflections

Sheadrick Jordan Jr. was born in Rhine, Georgia, on July 17, 1948, to the late Sheadrick Jordan Sr. and Lillie Mae McDuffie Jordan. After graduating from McRae High School in 1966, he embarked on a journey that would shape the course of his life. In 1966, he relocated to Fort Lauderdale, Florida, to live with his brother, where he would soon face a significant turning point in his life. Later that same year, Sheadrick was drafted into the U.S. Army, dedicating eight years of his life in service to his country.

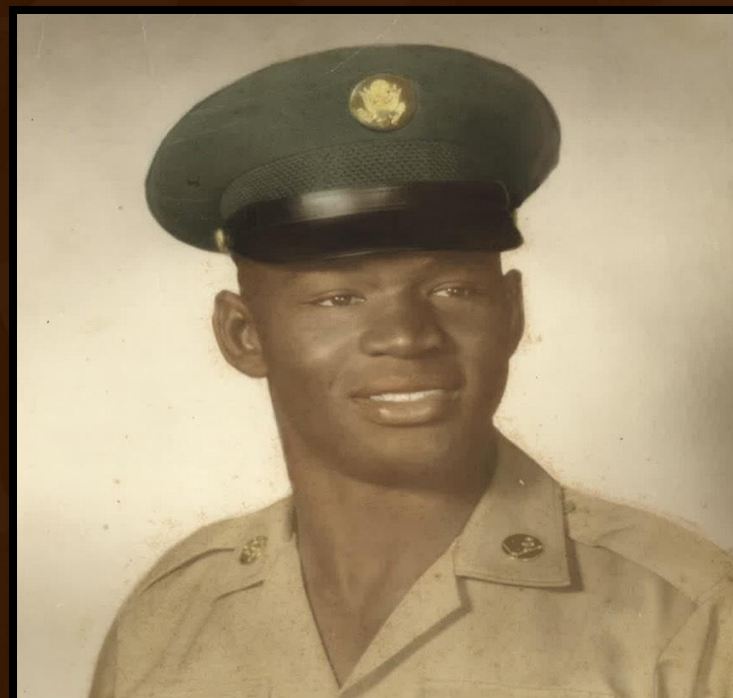

After his honorable discharge from the military, Sheadrick found his place at Sears Warehouse, where he started as a deliveryman. He continued to work diligently and was a dedicated employee at Sears Warehouse for an impressive eighteen years. However, life had other plans for him, and he made the selfless decision to return to Georgia when his parents fell ill. Sheadrick took on the role of their caregiver with love and devotion, ensuring they received the care and attention they needed.

In a beautiful chapter of his life, Sheadrick found love and companionship with Nancy Naomi Jordan, and they were joined in Holy Matrimony on October 27, 2006. Together, they shared a life filled with love, support, and cherished moments.

Sheadrick Jordan Jr. was preceded in death by his daughter, Karen Jordan-Jenkins, and his parents, Sheadrick Jordan Sr. and Lillie Mae McDuffie Jordan. He was also preceded by two siblings, Arsblee "Mac" McDuffie and Jewel Taylor.

He leaves behind a legacy of love, warmth, and memories that will forever be cherished by those who knew him. Sheadrick is survived by his loving wife, Nancy Naomi Jordan; a devoted son, Steve (Trina) Jordan; a caring brother, Kenneth (Joann) Jordan; a loving sister, Gwendolyn (Frank) Sims; a nephew who was like a son, Darvin (Dana) Taylor; a cherished God-son, Calvin Davis; four stepdaughters: Stephanie Williams, Renate Williams, Jennifer (James) McFarland, and Abigail (Andy) Moody; two sisters-in-law: Brenda (James) Lawrence and Geraldine Hall; two brothers-in-law: Willie Hall Jr. and Curtis (Konya) Steverson; an impressive twenty-four grandchildren; eleven great-grandchildren; and a host of nieces, nephews, cousins, and friends.
