Obituary

Wanda Smith, beloved mother, grandmother, sister, and friend, departed from this world on February 16, 2024, leaving behind cherished memories and a legacy of love. Born on September 20, 1963, in Douglas, Georgia, to the late Earl and Leila Bell Smith, Wanda's life was marked by warmth, kindness, and a vibrant spirit that touched all who knew her.

She attended Coffee County Schools and pursued higher education at South Georgia College and the Riley Institute.

Throughout her professional life, Wanda made lasting impressions with her infectious personality and unwavering dedication. Her tenure at both Huddle Houses in Douglas was notable not only for her diligent work but also for a moment captured in a viral video that showcased her loving nature. Currently employed by Dollar Tree and Zaxby's, Wanda brought joy to her coworkers and customers alike with her genuine smile and compassionate demeanor.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Earl and Leila Bell Smith; three brothers, Bobby Darby, Warren Lewis, and Michael Smith; and two sisters, Karen Jackson and Tracy Smith.

Wanda's greatest joy in life was her family, whom she cherished above all else. She leaves behind her children, Amecca Smith, CaDee Smith Sr., and Kwenz Smith, whose lives she enriched with boundless love and support. Her legacy further extends to her grandchildren: Chiante' Smith, Jasmine Smith, Quadaijah Taylor, Taikousky Smith, KeyShawn Davis, CaDee Smith Jr., Ian Smith, Londyn Smith, Kourtlynn Smith, and Kinslei Smith, as well as her great-grandchild, Khalani Taylor. She is survived by her brothers, Leslie (Cecilia) Smith, her twin, Wendell (Beverly) Smith, and Pete Smith; sister, Kuturah (Cookie) Smith, along with uncles Clint Smith and Willie Swanson. Wanda's legacy further lives on through a multitude of nieces, nephews, cousins, friends, and coworkers, all of whom were touched by her warmth and kindness.
