

In Loving Memory Of Our Father

A steady hand, a guiding light,
A voice that soothed the longest night.
He built our world with quiet grace,
And love was written on his face.

He taught us laughter, taught us peace,
Showed how to give, and find release.
No mountain high, no river wide,
Could dim the strength he held inside.

Though now his chair is standing still,
His presence lingers soft, but real.
In every sunrise, calm and true,
We'll feel his warmth come shining through.

The years may fade, but not his way
His kindness lives in us each day.
A father's love, so deep, so wide,
Forever walks right by our side.

Love Always

Your Daughters,
